

HOW TO CONNECT A LAPTOP TO TELEVISION

In order to connect a laptop to your television you will need to determine what cable you will need.

Most laptops / computers will have one of the below connections:

If connecting to a TV, you will most likely be connecting to a HDMI connection, and depending on your computer's port you would need to have a suitable cable or adaptor to allow the connection.

If your computer has an HDMI output and your TV has an HDMI input a simple HDMI cable is what you need.

If your computer has a VGA connection you may find that your TV also has a VGA connection in which case you could also choose to directly connect this way, alternatively a VGA to HDMI adaptor would be required.

If you have an apple product you would need either a Mini Display Port or USB-C to HDMI adaptor.